Writing Effective IEPs

Most children and adolescents with disabilities need supports and services to become successful students. An important key to that success is an Individualized Education Program (IEP), designed to meet the child's unique needs.

IEPs include appropriate goals for the child and specific ways to provide supports and services, monitor progress and make changes whenever necessary.

Join us on May 13th as we explore the Who, What, When, Where, and Why of IEPs!

Time will be provided for answers to your questions!

Please join us on Tuesday, May 13th and learn more about:

- IEPs - Individualized Education Programs;
- How to participate in the development of an IEP that supports YOUR child;
- Strategies and tips for successful meetings;
- Keeping records and much more!

Parent participation is your right and your responsibility.
